Team Lauren refers to the pairing of Bo and Lauren. The term first appeared on the Showcase Lost Girl website.

(The term Team Dyson relates to the pairing of Bo and Dyson.)

The term Doccubus is also used by fans of the couple to describe the romantic relationship between Bo and Lauren.

Bo and Lauren first met in It's a Fae, Fae, Fae, Fae World, when Bo was brought before The Ash and he told Lauren (Dr. Lewis) to take Bo to the lab and examine her to ascertain her species. Lauren explained to Bo who the Fae were and based on Bo's feeding signature determined that she was a Succubus, and offered to help Bo learn how to control her hunger and feed so that she could live a normal life without killing. Bo seduced Lauren with her succubus touch in a failed attempt to escape from the Fae.

Their mutual attraction grew and they made love for the first time in Vexed. However, when Bo asked her directly, Lauren admitted that The Ash had ordered her to distract Bo from discovering the identity of a dangerous Dark Fae and going after him. It drove a wedge between them, but with the passage of time and unavoidable collaboration in Fae matters, the romance and passion that had been held back overcame the strain in their relationship.

4.13 "Dark Horse"

In Season 3, Bo asked Lauren to be with her in a monogamous relationship. Although her succubus feeding needs eventually made it difficult for her to continue to be sexually monogamous, it was the first time Bo had willingly tried to be in an exclusive relationship.

Through events that transpired, Lauren became increasingly discouraged, driving her to examine the relationship they had together. Lauren told Bo that she thought she would always be asking from her more than she could give in return, and revealed her unhappiness. After years with the Fae, what had happened to Nadia, and the battle against The Garuda, she felt that she was losing herself, and thought they needed a break. Apprehensive and heartbroken, Bo agreed to give Lauren some space. (Delinquents).

They continued to cooperate as menacing forces brought Bo and the Fae world closer to imminent danger. Their relationship was mended in Dark Horse when Bo stopped a vengeful maniac from harming Lauren, Lauren seized the magical artifact that protected him, and Bo was able to kill him. Bo, who then had to go and confront her father, started to leave, stopped, turned back, and kissed Lauren passionately before departing. Lauren had told Bo, "I'm yours."

In Here Comes the Night, Bo and Lauren made love again for the first time since their separation. Although Lauren did not presume that it had been more than a sudden opportunity, Bo realized that what she truly wanted was to be with Lauren. In End of Faes, Bo asked for them to be together again and Lauren accepted.

Freedom To Love Necklace

On April 11, 2014, a limited edition replica of the necklace with pendant gift from Lauren that Bo found in Turn to Stone and wore in Dark Horse was made available online for purchase.^[1]

Designed by Prodigy Pictures , the pendant of the sterling silver "Freedom To Love Necklace" was based on the Labrys,^[2] a double-headed axe symbol originally associated with the goddess worship of the Minoan civilization^[3] and adopted in the 1970s by the lesbian-feminist movement as a symbol representing feminist/warrior, and by the women's spirituality movement.^{[4][5]}

Lost Girl Series  (the official twitter of Lost Girl), Anna Silk and Zoie Palmer responded with tweets thanking fans for the donation generated from the necklace.^{[8][9][10]}

Lauren & Bo Moments - Official Clip

Season 2 (2.03) Lauren Is No One's Property - Official Clip

Season 4 - The Love Triangle (Showcase)

Editing of Bo and Lauren scenes for Syfy (U.S.) episodes

In Season 2, the decision to cut an emotive scene between Bo and Lauren from Scream a Little Dream created controversy among LGBT fans of the show, resulting in the network being accused of insensitivity and censorship. Lost Girl producers responded to the backlash by issuing a public statement on the show's Facebook page explaining that the edits were done in-house, and not by Syfy, for "timing and not content."^[11]

As noted by Dorothy Snarker writing for AfterEllen: "With so little representation of gay relationships on TV, every little touch matters."^[12]

After this experience, beginning with Season 3, the traditional Showcase opening title sequence accompanied by the Lost Girl Theme song was replaced with opening credits superimposed over footage of the first scene on episodes for Syfy \(U.S.\) – thus sparing :30 seconds that would have otherwise been cut from the episodes seen in the United States.

In Season 4, the deletion of 13 sentences of dialogue (:50 seconds) between Bo and Lauren from Dark Horse, the season finale episode, resulted in protests by many fans because a pivotal moment between the two same-sex lovers was eliminated: Lauren told Bo that she belonged to her ("I'm yours.").^[13]

4.13 "Dark Horse"
"No, Bo. I'm yours."

How this scene was edited ^{[14][15]} led to the creation of a petition on Change.org asking Syfy (U.S.) to consider how the deletion of decisive dialogue between Bo and Lauren created a different perception among American audiences of Lauren's motivations towards Bo and of their romantic relationship.^[16]

As editors of the blog "PIXEL 51 - STIMULI" pointed out: imagine what the effect would be if the "We'll always have Paris." dialogue between Rick and Ilsa in "Casablanca" were to be deleted.^[17]

BO [points knife at Lachlan (The Ash)]

Lauren is no one's property.

LAUREN [places hand on Bo's shoulder]

Bo, don't. [slides hand gently down Bo's bicep]

((→ BEGIN CUT))

You'll just make it worse.

BO

No. I'm going to make it right.

LAUREN

Look at me, please.

((END CUT ← :07 seconds deleted from scene for Syfy (U.S.) episode))

LAUREN [hand is on Bo's bicep]

I need you to stay out of this.

[music]

4.13 Dark Horse Bo and Lauren dialogue cut for Syfy (U.S.)

[music]

LAUREN

You wore it. [necklace gift that Bo found in Lauren's apartment]

BO

I love it.

((→ BEGIN CUT))

LAUREN

And Rainer?

BO

You were wrong about him.

LAUREN

At least I was right about you. Always have been, since the first moment we met.

BO

And I've always known you were extraordinary. But now, a human doctor who can turn the Fae mortal? They're going to be coming for you.

LAUREN

Yeah? Let 'em try.

BO

You really are Dark.

LAUREN

No, Bo. I'm yours.

BO

We have to go. My father, portal to Hel, Tamsin and Dyson, and Kenzi ... oh god, Kenzi.

((END CUT ← :50 seconds deleted from scene for Syfy (U.S.) episode))

LAUREN

I'm going to stay. Evony's stable and, you know, just Hippocratic Oath and all that.

BO

Shit, you're serious.

LAUREN

You saw her, all vulnerable and human. And you know, I kind of did this to her. So

BO

Craziest thing of all? I actually get it.

LAUREN

Get out of here, succubus. Destiny's calling.
